

Cloud Security Alliance APAC Codebook - May 2018

New Releases of the Month

Treacherous 12 - Top Threats to Cloud Computing + Industry Insights - Japanese Version

The Top Threats to Cloud Computing Plus: Industry Insights serves as a validation of the relevance of security issues discussed in the earlier document as well as provides references and overviews of these incidents. In total, 21 anecdotes and examples are featured in the document. The references and overview of each anecdote and example are written with the help of publicly available information.

The CSA Japan Chapter has released the Japanese version of the report. Download the report here

Building a Foundation for Successful Cyber Threat Intelligence Exchange

This document is the first in a series of reports that will provide a framework to help corporations seeking to participate in cyber intelligence exchange programs that enhance their event data and incident response capabilities.

The paper offers high-level, yet practical, guidance to support companies in three key areas:

1. Connecting with sharing partners and exchange platforms that best meet their needs,
2. Identifying the capabilities and business requirements that will form the foundation for a value-driven cyber intelligence exchange program, and

- Understanding the basics of the exchange process so they can efficiently share the event they see and more efficiently operationalize any intelligence they collect.

ISO / IEC Draft International Standard (DIS) 21878 - Security Guidelines for Design and Implementation of Virtualized Servers Approved

Under an MOU signed between CSA & SPRING Singapore (now Enterprise Singapore), a collaboration to build upon the Technical Reference No. 30 on "Servers Virtualization" (first published in 2012 by the IT Standards Committee) and CSA's Cloud Control Domain 13, a joint white paper entitled 'Best Practices for Mitigating Risks in Virtualized Environments' was published by CSA in April 2015. The whitepaper drove efforts for international standardization at ISO which started as a study period in 2015. We are pleased to announce that the ISO DIS has been approved on 5 April 2018 at the SC27 meeting in Wuhan. The FDIS draft will proceed to be submitted in June for an 8-week long ballot.

APAC Research Working Groups

Industrial Control Systems (ICS) Security WG

Mobile Application Security Testing (MAST) WG

The mission of this new WG is to develop and maintain a research portfolio that provides guidance to assist ICS asset owners in enhancing the security of their production sites connected to the cloud.

The peer review for ICS WG Charter is now open. If you would like to make your contributions - please click here - <https://goo.gl/Vsoi2w>. Interested subject matter experts can join the WG by submitting information here. The open peer review will conclude on 25 June 2018.

This initiative aims to create a safer cloud ecosystem for mobile applications by creating systematic approaches to application testing and vetting that helps integrate and introduce quality control and compliance to mobile application development and management. The initiative hopes that more research into mobile application security vetting and testing will help reduce the risk and security threats that organizations and individuals expose themselves to by using mobile applications.

The peer review for MAST Project Charter is now open. If you would like to make your contributions, please click here. The open peer review will conclude on 25 June 2018.
